Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 264 pages. Two central beliefs in the Declaration of Independence have greatly shaped the United States and formed it into a country that is a beacon of liberty throughout the world. The first influential belief is that there is a providential God Who presides over the affairs of this world, and the second is that God has granted man inalienable rights. Leaders like Thomas Jefferson, George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, Frederick Douglass, Franklin Roosevelt, and Dwight Eisenhower have appealed to these beliefs during some of the nations most trying and defining moments, including the Revolutionary War, the Civil War, and World War II--the focus of this narrative. Unfortunately, these founding and sustaining visions are in danger of being lost today. This book states the disastrous effects that losing these beliefs would bring and presents solutions for a nation that is in peril due to a lack of vision. Randall DeSoto is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point with a degree in political science. He holds a juris doctorate from Regent University School of Law. Randys many life experiences and travels make We Hold These Truths come to life. As a West Point cadet, he participated in battlefield tours of Normandy and Great Britain and following graduation served as an armor officer in the Armys 4th Infantry Division. He has worked on Capitol Hill, participated in statewide political campaigns, and is a contributor to Townhall. com and The Daily Caller. He has carefully researched all of the major locations found in the book, from Boston to Bastogne. Endorsed by David Barton of Wallbuilders.
